Workshop Announcement

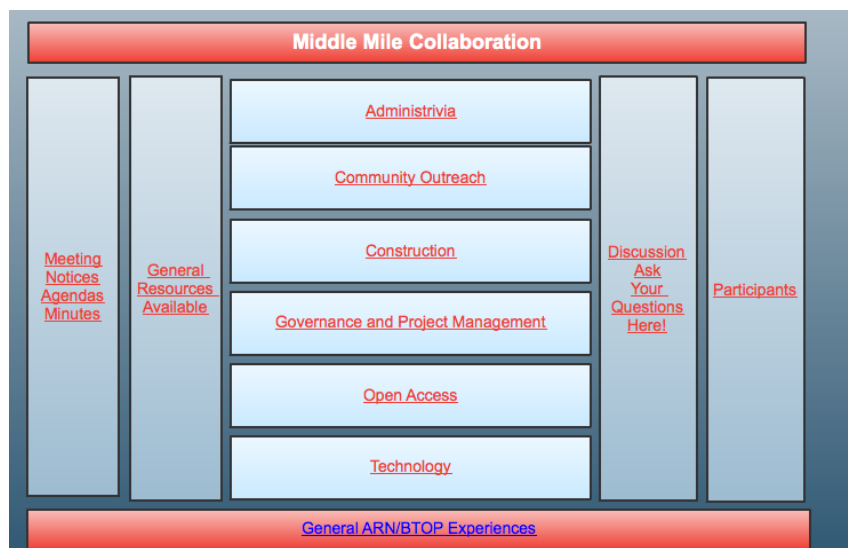

Introduction/Overview

U.S. UCAN created this site as a collaborations space for the individuals and organizations involved in the implementation and use of the broadband resources established through the Broadband Technologies Opportunity Program and related broadband initiatives. The site is a community resource that allows discussion, brings together resources and helps to identify best practices as well as issues that need to be addressed.

The site is intended to complement and not compete with the NTIA web site. Rather this site is owned by this emerging community and will evolve to meet the needs and requirements of this group.

The Graphic below contains links to the collaboration topics and other relevant information.
